Journal organization: Open Access
Most journals are subscription journals, they are purchased by university/library and are only accessible to subscribers.
Currently also 'open access' journals are available. Authors (or their funders) pay 'article process charges ' (APC) and the article is freely available.
Most subscription journals offer option to make an article 'open access'. These are so-called 'hybrid' journals.
Gold open access: author pays to publish in journal
Green open access: manuscripts is available through institutional repository.
